Bee Demonstration and Lecture Given In Irma

A very interesting lecture and demonstration on preparing bees for wintering out of doors was given by Mr. S. O. Hillerud, provincial apiarist, assisted by Mr. Andrew of the school of agriculture at Vermilion, at H. W. Love's apiary, west of Irma, on the afternoon of Thursday, October 4th.

About 15 bee-keepers were present representing Edgerton, Heath, Wainwright, Irma and Viking districts.

Among those present besides the two speakers were Messrs. T. A. Cox, Viking; S. V. Snyder, Edgerton; Calvert Blaisdell and W. W. Avison, of Heath; R. G. Robertson and F. Perkins, Wainwright; J. H. Armitage, Jas. Jackson, H. W. Love, J. Wilson and E. W. Carter, of Irma.

The first part of the program consisted of a lecture on handling the bees in the fall of the year, preparing them for packing away for the winter. Then using one of Mr. Love's hives of bees a demonstration was given of one method of packing them away for the winter. Everyone present was well pleased at being able to obtain first hand this valuable information.

Canadian Chamber of Commerce Hold Annual Convention In Winnipeg

Proposals for forming the Canadian Wheat Institute as a national body to conduct work in the interests of Canadian Wheat were endorsed by the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce which met in Winnipeg on September 11th, 12th and 13th. This followed an address by Mr. R. S. Law, president of United Grain Growers Ltd., in the course of which he dealt with the need for putting a new force behind the sale of Canadian wheat and showed how through the proposed Institute, scientific research and other efforts might be brought to bear towards the enlargement of outlets for Canadian wheat.

Mr. Law spoke on the subject—“Wheat from the National Standpoint” and much of his address was devoted to emphasizing the national importance of the wheat industry in Canada. In emphasizing that fact Mr. Law said: “It should be realized that growing wheat for export has been part of the basic policy of Canada for a third of a century. Upon it was founded the immigration policy of this country and the whole project of opening up Western Canada; upon it was predicated a large part of the country's railway construction and the building of canals and harbors. That western Canada should be opened up, that people from other parts of the country and from other countries should be invited to come in, that financial institutions should pour their resources into the prairies and that factories should be built to supply the needs of farmers who were to grow wheat,—all that was part of the national determination of the country from the beginning of the century.”

In concluding his address Mr. Law said: “The welfare of Western farmers, the welfare of Western Canada, and to a large extent the welfare of the Dominion of Canada must continue to depend upon our ability to maintain large outlets for the wheat grown in the west, and that in turn may well depend upon our ability to keep a national understanding and maintain a national outlook on our wheat problem.”

The resolution which was subsequently passed by the convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce read as follows:

“Realizing the importance of Canadian wheat production to the prosperity of Canada, the chamber has been gratified to learn that those directly interested in the production and marketing of Canadian wheat have under consideration the organization of a Canadian Institute as a national body to stimulate the marketing and use of wheat in the markets of the world. The chamber extends its closest cooperation in this endeavor.”

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear dad, who passed away October 12, 1928. No one knows how much we miss you; No one knows the bitter pain We have suffered since you left us. Life will never be the same.

In our hearts your memory lingers, Sweetly, tender, fond and true; There is not a day, dear dad, That we do not think of you. Ever remembered by his family in Calgary.

St. Louis Cardinals Win World Series

Navin Field, Detroit, Oct. 9.—The St. Louis Cardinals won the seventh game, 11 to 0, and the world series four games to three today as “Dizzy” Dean pitched his shutout by the widest margin in series history, the Cards scored seven runs in one inning, the third, and a riot among the left field bleacher patrons forced Commissioner Landis to put Joe Medwick, Cardinal outfielder out of the game in the sixth.

H. J. MONTGOMERY, M. L. A., ON THE FINANCIAL SITUATION

In view of the publicity that has recently been given to Provincial finances by the announcement of a large deficit for last year and the publishing of the financial statement for the first three months of the fiscal year, April 1st to June 30th, a summary of which appeared in this paper, Hugh J. Montgomery, M.L.A., in commenting on the financial situation as disclosed by these reports, has given The News the following statement:

“During the last few weeks the financial standing of the Province for the year ending March 31st, 1934, has been made public by the Provincial Treasurer and reveals another huge Provincial deficit on operating account. A surplus of $9,700.00 was estimated, but when the year ended there was an actual deficit on income account of the immense sum of $1,778,031.00. This is getting to be a habit with the U.F.A. Government, for during the past four years they have failed to live within their income by over $12,000,000.00, which has been added to the Public Debt and on which the interest and sinking funds for this year will be over $700,000.00, which the taxpayers of the Province will have added to their already excessive burden.

“Every year during this period the Liberals in the Legislature have urged a reduction in expenditure in order to balance the budget and avoid the necessity of increased taxation, but the Government paid no heed to our demands. One way to secure a substantial reduction in interest rates and a consequent lowering of taxation is to live within our income. The interest rates we are now compelled to pay on our public borrowings are exorbitant.

The financial statement giving particular receipts and payments for the first three months of the fiscal year, April 1st to June 30th, prepared by the Provincial Auditor, has also been made public.

“On Income Account it shows receipts of $4,282,016.83, and payments of $3,849,885.53, or an apparent surplus of receipts over payments of $432,131.30. A comparative statement for the same period last year shows a deficit of $249,998.97. The improvement therefore for the current year amounts to $682,130.27, as compared with the same months in 1933.

Drought Area Cattle Are Now Arriving

First shipments of surplus cattle from the drought areas of the province, purchased by the provincial department of agriculture under the recently announced policy, reached Edmonton stockyards last week, and are being disposed of. Representatives of the department are now in the areas concerned, handling the purchase and shipment of cattle.

China Wants Alberta Horses

Whether or not the Orient is preparing for war, the fact remains that China is making a demand on Canada for cavalry and artillery horses, and echoes of this demand have reached Alberta via Ottawa. This province should be able to provide 500 head or so of such war animals, it is believed by those who should know, and a canvass of the situation is now being made in reply to the queries from Ottawa.

Guarantee Is Being Met

Announcement has just been made that the Alberta Wheat Pool for the third successive year has met its maturing obligations. In full together with interest due to the Provincial Government in connection with the 1929 Wheat Pool overpayment.

At the time the government guarantee was agreed upon there was considerable misgiving as to the ability of the pool to make repayment in view of conditions in the wheat market. The record of repayment to date is reassuring. The pool has been doing a fair share of the grain business of the province.

It will be a most desirable outcome if the pool can pay off the government guarantee and thereby re-establish the equities of thousands of farmers in the big line of elevators.—Calgary Herald.

“This situation has been favorably commented on by the newspapers of the Province, some of which are inclined to give the Provincial Government a measure of credit for the better showing, but a study of the Auditor's comments explaining in detail how the better report has been made possible reveals a situation even worse than last year, and the facts must be a bitter disappointment to the taxpayers of the Province.

“The Auditor points out that increase in receipts to the amount of $683,050.00 is due to earlier payment of subsidies by the Dominion Government which were made during a later period last year. He further points out that payments by the Provincial Government to the Sinking Fund of $133,556.11 which were made during this period last year were not made this year.

“Therefore to make a fair comparison with last year the subsidies of $683,050.00 that were paid earlier this year should be deducted from the total receipts, leaving a balance of $3,899,966.83, while the payments to the Sinking Fund which were not made should have been made this year of $133,556.11 should be added to the payments of $3,849,885.53, making a total payment of $3,983,441.64, or a deficit for the three months of $384,474.81 instead of a surplus of $432,131.30 as the report shows.

“This makes a worse showing by $134,476.84 than last year when the deficit was $249,998.97 for the same period.

“We now have a new Provincial Treasurer, and I hope he institutes better business methods than his predecessor, Premier Reid. However, since his appointment he is spending entirely too much time travelling abroad to the country attending political meetings at the expense of the Province. He should devote his energies and ability to a solution of our financial problems, especially endeavoring to balance the budget. He would then be doing something to earn his salary. In fact it would appear that all new Cabinet Ministers are out electioneering on the expense of the Province and neglecting the business of their respective departments, apparently considering the welfare of the U.F.A.-C.C.F. Party of more consequence than the Province itself.”

Viking Items

The new Ambassador orchestra scored a hit Monday evening with their music and arrangements for the novelty dance which they sponsored. The hall was nicely decorated for the occasion and the large crowd which was augmented by visitors from other towns made the affair a most enjoyable one.

Clem Laughlin, our local pro hockey player, left on Tuesday evening for Chicago, where he will take over the duties of manager for the Chicago Black Hawks. We wish Clem every success.

The judgment of $5,000 given by Mr. Justice Boyle in Calgary last May against G. W. Green of Viking and his son, Harold Green, was dismissed in the Court of Appeal last week.

Frank Wright, Ken Hilliker and Harry Lawes enjoyed a hunting trip in the Paradise Valley district on Monday. We understand they are eligible for the “We got a goose club.”

At the annual convention of the provincial W.C.T.U. organization held in Calgary last week, Mrs. M. Hyslop was elected vice-president for the ensuing year.

The fine mid-summer weather of the past week has been enjoyed by everyone. Threshing machines have been busy in all parts of the district.

Rev. and Mrs. Bambridge and family moved over from Donalds, on Monday and spent the day with friends and renewing acquaintances.

Speakers from Calgary are advertised to speak on the Douglas Social Credit System in the Elks Hall on October 20th.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Graham of Edmonton were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Graham.

H. Rollans is in attendance at the municipal hospitals convention being held in Edmonton today.

Wedding Bells

SAVILLE—McLEAN

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on Friday afternoon, October 5th, when Catherine Mary Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McLean of Irma, and Francis Clifford, the second son of Mrs. and the late Mr. Frank Saville of Hardisty, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by the Rev. A. M. Trendell, Anglican clergyman of Wetaskiwin.

The bride, who was very prettily dressed in brown wool tulle trimmed with brown satin and carrying a bouquet of pink roses, entered the room on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by her younger sister, Betty. The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her cousin, Miss Marney Patterson, Mr. Ellsworth Goodale acting as groomsmen.

After the ceremony the guests, numbering about thirty, sat down to a delightful luncheon. The bride's table, very prettily arranged, was centred with a large bouquet of pink carnations. The wedding guests included the following: Mr. C. McCauley, and Miss Helen Deaton, of Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Patterson, Miss Marney Patterson, Miss Catherine Patterson, Mrs. Saville, Miss Thelma Saville, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Saville, Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Trendell and son, Mr. H. B. Woods of Hardisty, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Cotton of Wainwright, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Prior, Mr. Ivor Livingstone, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Larson, Miss Arrie Fischer, Mr. Clifford Allan and Mr. Pete Skane.

Following the luncheon the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Edmonton. The parents of the bride in this happy event are old timers in the Irma district, having settled here about 25 years ago. The wedding took place on the old homestead where the family have resided continuously since coming here.

The bride is a grand daughter of Mrs. C. McCauley and the late Mr. Samuel F. McCauley, pioneers of Edmonton, having settled there in 1892.

Trench Silo Helps Solve the Pasture Problem

(Lacombe Dominion Experimental Station Weekly News Letter)

Almost every year during later summer and fall pastures are dry and very short. During this period cows fall off in milk flow and cattle lose flesh, instead of gaining for going to their quarters or to market. At the Dominion experimental station, Lacombe, a supply of silage is always kept on hand for this period. Silage is succulent, palatable feed, almost equal to good pasture. It is the most compact method of storing feed, and it can be kept for years.

In 1931 the rainfall at Lacombe for June, July and August, or the growing months, was 12.23 inches, but every year since it has been very much lower, and in 1934 it was only 5.12 inches. In 1931 there was a very heavy growth of all silage crops and after filling the two upright silos at the barns and putting 130 tons into a former root cellar, there were still over 200 tons of silage to store. This was put into a trench silo excavated in a bank back in the bush. For three years this trench silo has been opened when pastures were short, and this fall, with pastures very short, this silage grown in the wet summer of 1931 has been fed daily since the end of August. Although three years old, the silage is as green and succulent as when put into the silo.

Silage is one of the best feeds for milk production, and on many farms where milk cows or beef cattle are kept a reserve store of silage which could be opened up in emergencies, when pastures or winter feed supplies are short, would be valuable. Very little expense is involved in making a trench silo, and sunflowers, corn and green oats all make good ensilage.

The Country Press

(The Christian Science Monitor)

Turning from city newspapers to small town press exchanges that come to the editor's desk is like stepping from the slums, full of vice, into an old-fashioned garden sweet with lavender and rhyme and the scent of perennial flowers. The pages of big dailies are so full of murder, thievery, immorality, and selfishness that the better news is obscured by these glaring shatterings of the Decalogue. One puts the paper aside with a feeling of depression and heartache that the world is so full of terrible and unhappy things.

Then picking up the papers that record the happenings of the little towns around us, one gains renewed faith in life. Here are set forth only that which uplifts a community—the activities of the business men, the church items, the happy social gatherings of the people, the marriages, births and deaths, farmers' items, and all the thousand and one daily occurrences that make up the simple annals of the great common people, who are really the foundation of this broad country of ours.

Sometimes people speak lightly of the country newspaper, but it is one of the most potent and uplifting factors in our national existence.

A New And Better Viewpoint

The recent annual convention of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce held at Winnipeg, was, it is generally recognized, one of the most important and in many respects the most significant gathering yet held by that body. It was not only one of the largest assemblages of outstanding men in the financial, industrial and commercial life of the Dominion yet convened, but it appears to have been animated by a new spirit based upon a fuller recognition of the responsibilities of what has been termed Big Business to the country as a whole and to the masses of producers, workers and consumers who, in the last analysis, are the backbone of the nation.

Important resolutions dealing with matters of far-reaching social and economic questions, and involving vital changes in national policies, were adopted, not the least significant of which was the declaration in favor of the negotiations of a Reciprocity Agreement with the United States in favor of the terms of trade. The adoption of this resolution in itself reveals the change in sentiment and viewpoint of the business world of Canada.

Significant, too, were some of the addresses delivered by men occupying high executive positions in the industrial world. For example, Mr. T. A. Russell, president of the Massey-Harris Co., took the convention that "the success of industry and farming were wrapped up together in Canada in a way which nothing could separate," and he gave facts and figures to prove it. As the purchasing power of the farmer declined, said Mr. Russell, so did the demand and output for farm implements. In the case of the Massey-Harris Co., he said, employment dropped from 4,900 in 1929 to an average of less than 1,200 for the years 1931, 1932 and 1933. "Not only has this proved a hardship for the men thrown out of employment through no fault of their own," he said, "but it has tremendously affected their purchasing power, their ability to pay taxes and, generally, to contribute their quota to Canadian prosperity. Likewise, the investor who has had no return on his investment has had to curtail his expenditures and has been a poor customer either for the farmer or for industry." Mr. Russell strongly urged the absolute necessity of complete and generous co-operation with the farming industry in order to bring about its re-establishment and promote its prosperity.

Then, up spoke Mr. W. R. Campbell, president of the Ford Motor Co. of Canada, on behalf of all workers in industry. Space will not admit of any extended quotations from Mr. Campbell's address, but a few will suffice to indicate his position, and the attitude he urged all employers of labor to adopt in the interests of the workers, in their own interests, and in the interests of the country at large. Mr. Campbell said:

"As far as Canada is concerned there can be no normal times until all of our people who are capable of working have an opportunity for gainful employment—free and unfettered by government aid. In dealing with the ills which must be corrected it is time that the very grave importance of our human relationships be recognized. I repeat—until every man in this country capable of working is able to find gainful employment the prime responsibility of industry is to the worker. The employee's interest must not be subordinated to the interest of the shareholder.

"Perhaps," continued Mr. Campbell, "these are rather amazing statements, but not until this condition is brought about can either capital and management or the worker prosper. Our primary duty, then, should be to make certain not only that the interest of labor in the benefits of industry be not subordinated to that of capital, but also that labor be granted an equitable share of these benefits."

Suggesting the only possible way in which industry can be re-vitalized and employment provided, Mr. Campbell said: "What we must do is to start the ball rolling upward injecting more money into our economic structure at the bottom, through the wages of these industrial workers and profit by the steadily increasing circulation of this money upward through our whole business fabric. That is good business because it is profitable. Perhaps it means even the salvation of our industry itself as we know it today. Our problem at home, then, becomes one of finding greater markets for the products of domestic manufacture, and this again devolves upon the problem of finding greater employment and providing increased purchasing power for our own workers. By increasing the earnings of the average worker, by paying him a greater return for his labor and by increasing the volume of his employment, by pumping into our economic structure more money at this base, we can get a start toward solution of our problem."

Having made a reference to the further development of export trade, Mr. Campbell concluded: "It is an inescapable fact that we have now entered upon an era of social readjustment in this world. In working out this readjustment so that the rights of both capital and labor shall be properly balanced, it devolves upon capital to take the initiative, with the welfare of the whole nation always in mind. Capital must do this, because capital has the imagination, the training and the ability to assume leadership. Until this proper balance is struck and until this country has been able to lift itself by its own surge and its own ability back to normal times, it is imperative that capital defer profits, defer its claim to a return upon invested wealth, in order to provide all of our people able to work with adequate employment at such a return as to enable them to live in accordance with standards commensurate with the calibre of Anglo-Saxon peoples."

Thus we have open confession by two of Canada's great industries that their first responsibility today is not to shareholders and bondholders, but to farmers and workers—the real primary producers; that capital must wait for its return; may more, that it must take the leadership in solving the problems of the producers, workers and consumers, in full realization of the fact that unless and until these are solved, there can be no return and no future for industry or the enormous investments that have been made in industry. Such frank albeit belated recognition of this great truth is, in itself, the first and a long step towards ultimate advancement and success for all.

Vancouver Is Likened

To Constantinople

Should Greatly Aid Modern World States Lord Tomlin

Vancouver, with its natural advantages and geographical position, should be to the modern world what Constantinople was to the ancient world, Lord Tomlin, Assistant Secretary of the judicial committee of the privy council, declared in an address to the Canadian Club at Vancouver.

Lord Tomlin said that Vancouver with its marvelous harbor and a network of railways behind it should be vastly interested in the solution of the world depression. Because, he said, Vancouver should logically hold Asia commercially in fee.

LOST 10 LBS. IN TWO MONTHS

Not too Old to Reduce at 50

Here is a letter which proves that there is no necessity to tolerate excessive fatness, even at the age of 50—

"I was becoming too fat after reaching 50, and had attacks of rheumatism and indigestion. I took ordinary salts and other medicines, but they did not do any permanent good. Then I commenced taking Kruschen. I soon began to feel different—brighter, stronger, had more energy, no rheumatism, and to my surprise, after two months I lost 10 lbs. in weight, although I was eating much more, as digestionfulness had nearly left me."—W. H. G.

The numerous vital salts in Kruschen stimulate and tone up the bodily functions from a number of different angles. Your stomach, liver, and kidneys all feel the immediate benefit. Your blood is cleansed of impurities and becomes invigorated and refreshed. You forget indigestion, rheumatism, and depression in a new and unaccustomed feeling of physical and mental exhilaration.

WHAT DOES YOUR HANDWRITING REVEAL?

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)
(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: The response to the author's invitation to readers to send in a specimen of their handwriting for a personal reading has been enormous. Readers are referred to the announcement at the foot of this article.)

"How can Grapho-Analysis help me?"—that is the question that readers invariably ask when they read my articles on the subject of character analysis from handwriting.

And it is a natural question. For in these days, peeps more than any others, the struggle for existence, for progress, for individuality. I will endeavor to answer the question by first asking others.

Are you happy?—or are you continually growing at life with a constant chip on your shoulders? Are you progressing in your work?—or are you dissatisfied? Are you in a round hole; unable to make any real progress, yet not knowing what to do to change the possibilities of your weaknesses?

If you are married, are you contented?—or is discontent creeping in. If you go through life without knowing yourself and your life partner? Do you make friends, and keep them?—or are you living the life of an involuntary recluse, unable to enjoy the society and companionship of real friends?

The answers to all these questions can be summed up in a phrase—Know yourself, and others. Or, one word will suffice—Understanding. If you go through life without knowing and understanding yourself—your faults and your virtues; your merits and your weaknesses—you will be seriously handicapped.

Life's prizes go to those who know their own potentialities, capitalize them, and strengthen them; who, realizing their faults, strive to overcome them.

Grapho-Analysis helps you to know yourself, and thus enables you to make the most of your capabilities, whilst at the same time, by pointing out your weaknesses, gives you an opportunity to eradicate them.

Handwriting is not merely a matter of putting pen to paper. You have to use your brain in order to write. And the brain is the captain of your body. Everything you do comes first of all from your brain. Handwriting is only the physical expression of the instructions coming from your brain.

And everything you are and can be is summed up in your handwriting, as demonstrated by an expert grapho-analyst.

I have space for only a few very brief extracts from character readings made recently. R.M.—You are likely to be impulsive. You do not consider very long before acting. There is a slight strain of procrastination shown—do not let it become a habit. You have a distinct cultural trait; you have a desire to know things, and to investigate and find out for yourself.

Miss M.—You have a great pride and personal dignity, a retentive memory and are very careful about details. You have a considerable regard for your own importance, and are prone to regard yourself as full of originality and individuality. But I am afraid that this is more pretension than actual, and is not entirely sincere. I suggest that you try to be more your natural self; your friends will like you all the more.

Do you want a personal reading of your own writing? Do you wish to know what your friends are really like? Send a letter in your normal writing—state birthdate (in each case), and enclose 10c coin and 3c stamped addressed envelope. If you send more than one specimen for analysis, please enclose coin for each. Replies will be mailed as quickly as possible, but please allow at least two weeks for reply. Poor Opinion Of Women

Twelve-Year-Old Jackie Cooper Has Had Bitter Experience

Jackie Cooper, young motion picture actor, arrived in New York recently to fill a theatre engagement and said some bitter things about women. Jack is just 12 years old.

"Women are just suckers for your money," he declared, and then declared himself for celibacy.

"I don't think I'll ever have anything to do with them," he said.

Policy To Be Continued

Renewal Of Stock Feeder System Has Been Announced

Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion minister of agriculture, has announced the renewal of the feeder purchase policy, which was in effect from 1924 to 1932. Under this policy the Dominion department of agriculture will pay one-way railway fare and reasonable travelling expenses to purchase feeder cattle to return to their farms for feeding.

The object of this policy is to enable those farmers who have a surplus of feed to use it to advantage and at the same time provide an outlet for surplus Western cattle.

Try To Germinate Seeds 2,500 Years Old

The question of whether wheat reputedly 2,500 years old will sprout was before scientists of the agriculture ministry, and Oxford and Cambridge Universities recently. The wheat seed was found in a tomb of an Egyptian king at ancient Thebes. Experts are attempting to produce germination by natural means, failing which they intended to try artificial methods.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, half owner of the Hour-Glass Ranch, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wiltweed outfit.

"Listen to old Dad, will you," he growled. "His talk is sure potent."

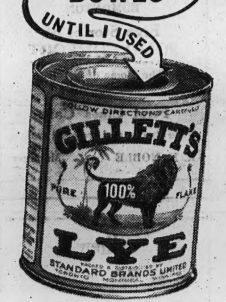

Fragments of that talk came to them on the hot wind from the desert. Under that word-lash the burros frankly trotted. Dustin hailed him from cupped hands:

"Ho! Shammy-skin! . . . Dad . . . Kane . . . Come on over to the house."

Kane stared at them from rheumy

OGDEN'S "Alls well that Smokes Well"

by LOU SKUCE

OGDEN'S
CUT PLUG

eyes white, with crusted alkali and came slowly across to them, wiping his lips on the back of a dirty, hairy hand.

"Wait till I strip the packs. Them asses'll sure roll on 'em if I wait."

He followed the patient burros to the corral where they surged at the full water-trough and his voice shrilled out in profane appeals.

"Hi, you Baptists! Git to hell outen that! . . . A chunk of rock as big as an orange smote the reluctant Baptist behind the ear and brought him to order. "Presbyterian! Where the hell d'ye think you're goin'?"

Episcopalian . . .

In five minutes he had his packs stripped and lined up and came up the steps wiping his face on his sleeve.

"Them dam asses," he growled, "are more trouble 'n thoroughbred. I got to chunk 'em with rocks on the trail to git two miles a day outen 'em. In comp, the minute I take off the packs they wander off. They'll stray twenty mile by sun-up. I been prospectin' out here more'n thirty years," he complained. "An' I swear to God more'n nineteen years was spent trackin' loose burros. What you want with me?"

"Come inside," said Dustin. "Nice names you got for 'em."

"Oh, you mean them asses. They've earned 'em. Now you take that ass Baptist. I run belly-deep into the fust puddle he finds an' all hell can't git him out! Presbyterian! pick the roughest trail he kin find and shoulder the other asses into it. No matter where it takes 'em to as long as they take his trail! . . ."

He stopped talking as Dustin came back with a bottle and glasses and his shrewd eyes watched the ranchman pouring. Kane was a "desert rat" but he was no fool. He was fairly sure that Sam Dustin was never civil without just cause. He drained the tumbler at a gulp.

"You'll be damned glad you had the guts to grubstake me this time, Dustin," he said. "I got news for you."

It was the first time in his life that he had ever called Dustin by his last name without any prefix and both partners sensed that it had its meaning. They both eyed Kane. Could the old fool be drunk on just one hastily swallowed drink? It was not likely. They could not know that the old prospector, who had spent a lifetime trailing will-o'-the-wisps across a continent, was intoxicated with the headiest wine in the world.

Success! He thrust a gnarled old hand into his tattered shirt and fumbled there.

"Scratchin' yourself or what?" asked Goddard.

"Mostly 'what,'" said Kane grimly. "You two listen to me. . . . His voice rose shilly as men do who would force belief."

"For more'n a lifetime I been trackin' an' trailin' across them ranges. . . . His knotted finger shot out toward the distant range of the West. "I've done scratched gravel from Alaska to Tehuantepec. There ain't a county between hell an' high water where I ain't sweated an' bled. I've eat more desert dust'n the Lord used in creatin' man."

"Come to the point," said Dustin shortly. "Spike here says I've been a fool ever to have grubstaked you. What's bittin' you? What've you got this time? Need more of a grubstake to tide you over till the Christmas time?"

"Will you stand another stake if I need it?" demanded Kane. He felt he knew both men and he knew well that his few finds had not paid his grubstake bills. He did not really like a single bone in Sam Dustin's big body but after all . . . Dustin had staked him when no one else would.

"You mean you'll stand another stake if I need it?" he asked. Both men eyed him. Old Kane might have concealed bad luck. He did it frequently. Good luck never! He must have some good news.

"Sure we'll stake you again," said Dustin quickly. "A man can't expect to win always. You've made one or two nice hauls, Dad. Better luck next time."

Dad Kane, desert rat, luckless prospector till now, gray and very wise Ulysses in Frontier lore, was taken in. He thought they meant it. These were partners worth having! How he had misjudged them! His eyes bored into Dustin's.

"I been seven days gitlin' back," he said. "I was up in the Best Wood hills. . . ."

Dustin's eyes contracted a little, possibly from the glare.

"We're partners in all my prospectin'," said Kane sharply. "But, by God! I'm not sharin' in what I seen your men doin' up there."

"What in hell do you mean, your damned old . . . began Dustin. But Spike Goddard waved him into silence.

"Wait a bit . . . Spike's eyes narrowed and his voice softened. "Go on Kane. What do you mean?"

"Mean? You know damned well what I mean. I ain't no cattle man but I know what it means when I find two Broken Spur men changin' brands on Hour-glass cattle. Usin' runnin'-irons on cattle on a fenced range at that. After that, they cut the fences an' piled tumble-weed along the wire to look like an old break an' . . ."

"You're crazy, man! . . . I tell you . . ."

"I ain't aimin' to start no trouble. Least of all do I want to have trouble with the Hour-glass people. I got me a good reason, too. You and me are partners in prospectin' but I tell you plain that if your men ain't called off old man Joe Carr's cattle, I'll never only spit with you. . . . I'll go to him an' . . ."

"I tell you, you old fool, you're wrong," began Dustin. Then Kane exploded.

"I tell you I seen 'em," he said. "It wasn't no small party just maverickin' a few calves like they've got a right to do. I seen Gray an' Epps and Corse. They had a wagon in the hollow an' they had a fire goin' an' a nigger heatin' the irons. They got no sense no way. They might know that usin' grease-wood for the fire'd be like shoutin' out what they was doin'. On legitimate business they'd have had dry wood in the cooney under the wagon. You call off your dogs till I git done with my business with the Hour-glass. If you don't, you'll be sorry. I ain't goin' to be mixed up in no cattle war at my time o' life."

A breathless silence held both partners. For just a fraction of a second Spike Goddard's eyes held his partner's gaze. Then he winked. Dustin at once took the cue. He was mentally quicker than Spike.

"Damn those fools," he said quickly. "If they've been up to any game like that, we'll sure fire 'em. I gave 'em the wagon and a few days off to hunt in the hills. God knows we don't need Hour-glass cattle."

"You don't need 'em now," said Kane curtly. "For more'n three years I've heard men say that if the Broken Spur brand on most hides was cut down it'd strip to a Hour-glass. They change awful easy. You all don't need to do that from now on I tell you. Look here. . . ."

His outthrust hand threw a skin bag to the table where it hit the board with a dull metallic clink. Dustin pounced on it like a cat on a mouse and fairly snatched it open with teeth and fingers as Kane talked.

"I'll need a couple o' men to help me for a few days but I'm thinkin' that when word gets out of what I've found, there'll sure be a stampede like the Tompals days. In the meantime I need powder an' fuses an' fulminate an' drills. Mine are all wore down to the roots go to speak. I need a new pick and some beddin', too. Them damned asses o' mine eat up most of my beddin'. I'll need two quarts of mercury, too, an' a new chimney bag an' two hundred o' bacon an' four an' sugar an' coffee. . . ."

He rambled on but neither man paid any heed. Dustin laid an old newspaper on the table and emptied the contents of the bag on it and Goddard, who leaned over Dustin's shoulder, started back with a quick oath. Dustin, too, took fire at what he saw.

"Good God!" he said sharply. It was not an oath though Dustin was prone to use them. It was a combination of oath and disbelief and surprise.

"Where on earth did you find this, Dad?" he asked sharply. "I've seen gold from Alaska to Arizona but never anythin' like this. Where on earth did you find it?"

"Like it?" Kane giggled the senile laugh of old age. "I didn't find it on earth a-tall. I found it under the earth and I dug like a damned fool of a prairie dog to git it. I figured that bad'gake you both set up. This is what I git fer keepin' on tryin' after you all figured I was an other damned old desert rat gone crazy."

He thrust a claw-like hand deep into the little heap of sand and fragments and turned it over lovingly. Little yellow nuggets lay on top nestling in rich premises on lighter gravel. One great piece of white quartz was laced and streaked with gold as red as fire and one chunk, almost as big as a man's closed fist, seemed made of solid metal.

Smarter Tie For Sailors

New Pattern Being Issued For British Jack Tar

The black silk handkerchief, or scarf, for many generations a distinguishing feature of the British sailors' uniform, is to be oblong instead of square, state admiralty fleet orders.

Since the latter part of the eighteenth century, the scarf, always 36 inches square, has been tied with a knot to meet the point of the sailor's collar. The new size will be 36 inches by 38½ inches.

A naval officer said that, after a little wear, the square handkerchief when formed into a tie or scarf, is not long enough to make a neat knot. Issues of the new pattern will begin at once.

Delivers Bread By Boat

W. Selmin, the "Bread Boatman", has just completed his 45th year delivering bread on the Lower Clarence river at Maclean, New South Wales. In travelling his daily round he has covered between 600,000 and 700,000 miles—without an accident. Most of his rounds were done in a rowing boat, but the last few years he has used a motor boat.

Close to 50 per cent. of the motor vehicles in China are owned by or near Shanghai.

Keep "Leftovers"
Fresh and Tasty

You know how deliciously fresh waxed paper keeps sandwiches. "Para-Sani" Heavy Waxed Paper will do the same for cut meats, cake and other foods that remain at the end of the meal. "Para-Sani" enables you to serve these left-overs again, knowing that they still possess their appetizing flavour and freshness.

"Para-Sani" comes in a handy roll. Just tear off what you need against the sharp edge of the box. For less exacting uses "Centre-Pull" Waxed Paper in sheets is very popular.

Your druggist, grocer or stationer has them both.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

The Editor,

Viking News.

Dear Sir: The recent announcement of the Hon. F. S. Griedale that the school of agriculture at Vermilion would definitely open has been warmly received by a large number of farm folk who have boys to send to that institution for training, and as well scores of young ladies who desire the very practical course in home economics which it offers.

Already the response as measured by registrations for the winter's course has been very gratifying, as well over 150 applications have already been received. The well equipped dormitory will hold close to 200 students, so that there is still room for those who wish to spend a profitable winter at a minimum cost.

Board and room has been reduced to 80c a day and the institution furnishes the bedding and provides the laundry for same. There are no costs or tuition fees, and Alberta thus offers a course in Agriculture for boys and one in Home Economics for girls at a cost that is most reasonable.

We shall not try to print all the names of those who have registered, but have thought that each weekly newspaper would like to receive the names of those registering from its immediate vicinity.

The names of those whose applications have been received from Viking and district are:

Ranfurly—Irene Bowen, Philip Austin, Thomas Beamish, Fred Baker. Haight—Marry Ruddy, Mary Kolodychuk, Anna Kolodychuk, Steve Chowiw. Lavy—Clarence Kittle, Eli Hunka, Harold James. Inland—Catherine Corpan, Annie Hayduck, Pearl Goshko, Wm. Poole. From the territory Viking to Holden there are nearly 30 young men and women registered for the course. All information gladly furnished on request.

W. J. ELLIOTT, Principal.

Next Year's Grasshoppers

Grasshoppers will be with us again next year, according to the provincial field crops branch, which issues a warning to farmers and some advice as to cultivation to minimize the infestation next spring. It is pointed out that any tillage which can be carried on to destroy all eggs in stubble land will reduce next year's outbreak to such an extent that poisoning will only be necessary along the edges of the fields. Farmers are urged to keep in touch with the department at Edmonton, or the federal Entomological service at Lethbridge for further advice on the problem.

A little girl from the city visiting in the country here noticed the farmer spreading out a stack of hay to dry. "Is it a needle for me looking for?" she asked.

"I don't see why your history lessons should bother you so," said a school ma'am here to a boy pupil, "they didn't bother me when I was a girl." "Well, there wasn't so much history when you was a girl," the boy replied.

Here and There

What a practical newspaperman finds, interesting on a cruise around the world in the Canadian Pacific flagship Empress of Britain can be counted upon to capture the imagination of stay-at-homes. Last winter Alan Maurice Irwin, a Montreal writer, made the cruise. He saw intriguing places, outstanding people and strange customs. So he sat down and wrote a book which is illustrated by photographs he made with his own camera, filled with amusing anecdotes upon humanity. Now, under the comprehensive title "—and ships—and sailing was," the book is on Macmillan's fall list.

That United States investors' capital would flow into Canada in an even greater volume is the prediction of John R. Hastie, of the Mutual Life of New York office in Chicago, speaking before the Life Underwriters Association of Toronto, at the Royal York Hotel recently.

The cream of American baseball players is scheduled to sail from Vancouver October 20, aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan, for an all-star tour of Japan, China and the Philippines. Judge and Mrs. Kenesaw Mountain Landis may also be in the party.

Photographed in a group for the first time since they were "shot" on their arrival in Canada a few months ago, His Excellency the Governor-General, Her Excellency and their elder son and daughter were snapped on board the Empress of Britain just before Lady Beasborough and her son and daughter sailed for Europe recently.

Appropriation of one dollar was made recently by the Vancouver City Council as the nominal price for the purchase from the Canadian Pacific Railway of 14 acres of right-of-way property at Kitilano Beach, near the British Columbia city.

The first McIntosh apples of the season for distribution throughout the Dominion from Victoria to Halifax went out recently over Canadian Pacific lines in trains of 45 cars. The fruit is reported to be in wonderful condition and this season's product will maintain the great reputation that British Columbia has won for its apples.

Under the Canadian Pacific five years' free scholarship award to McGill University, Reside McCallum, of Montreal; David B. W. Reid, of Winnipeg; and Albert Grant Asplin, of Lethbridge, all sons of company employees, are announced as this year's winners. The scholarships are renewable every year up to five years if the holders are entitled to full standing in the next higher year.

SPORT PEEPS

Never has there been a World Series in baseball where so much interest has been displayed. Radio has brought the game into the homes in the most remote regions. Through National hook-ups and re-broadcasts, the cheapest kind of a radio gave the listener a grandstand seat. It was simply amazing how clearly the sound of the ball smacking the catcher's glove, came to the ear. The contact of ball and wood gave a "ping" that told you before the announcer did, that the batter had connected. You had to have his eye to see just where the ball went through.

It was a great series. The games were replete with dazzling plays, showing skill on the part of real experts in this wonderful game. It takes hundreds of hours of practice for most men to attain that rhythm of motion displayed by big leaguers in meeting the ball with a sweep of the arm which is continued in a throw to a base. Yet what fraction of a second saved by this graceful movement, means a put-out perhaps.

The ordinary player will make the 30 yards to first base in less than five seconds. Yet the most frequent put-out is at first, the ball perhaps traveling even to left fielder who with speed and accuracy throws for the kill at the base. Many a play is decided by a split second. The thrill of baseball comes in these periods of less than five seconds duration.

In the second game the Tigers were down 2-0 in the third inning. Then "Schoolboy" Rowe for the following nine innings allowed but one hit, turning back 28 Cardinal batters, and won the game. It was a magnificent effort, placing the pitcher among the immortals in World Series.

On Thursday and Friday of this week a group of Big League players are in Edmonton to display their wares. Outstanding among the galaxy of stars, we note the names of Jimmy Fox, the home-run hitter, and Heinie Manush the great batsman. These exhibition games will be well worth seeing, for one will see a display of the finer points in baseball. These boys draw big salaries because they can play ball better than other fellows. A little luck may help at times, but it is consistent efficiency that is desired by the management who pays the wages.

News From The Capital

By T. B. Windross

The crime waves that periodically come to every city, come to Edmonton also, and this week there have been robberies, hold-ups, murder charges, and even a hanging at Fort Saskatchewan. So that the people in the capital have had a surfeit of ghastly crime news to act as the jam in the sandwich of the "worked-up" news in the daily papers during the past week. One robber was accidentally shot by a policeman who was arresting him, in a scuffle in which the man resisted arrest.

"The weather" is always the best and most important of news, as it is always everywhere the theme of conversation. So it is not out of place to state that the capital has been enjoying the most wonderfully beautiful weather, clear, sunny days and fine cool nights, for the greater part of this week. For the sake of the farmers may it continue long. There was a new moon this week, and that may be an important factor in the news about the weather.

... Our Everyday Business ...

The Bank of Montreal is co-operating in every way to help improve business conditions.

Making loans is as much the bank's everyday business as receiving deposits or clearing cheques. Interest on loans and investments constitutes the bank's main source of revenue.

The Bank of Montreal stands ready today, as always, to lend money for legitimate needs of farmers, merchants and others who can meet the requirements of sound banking principles.
